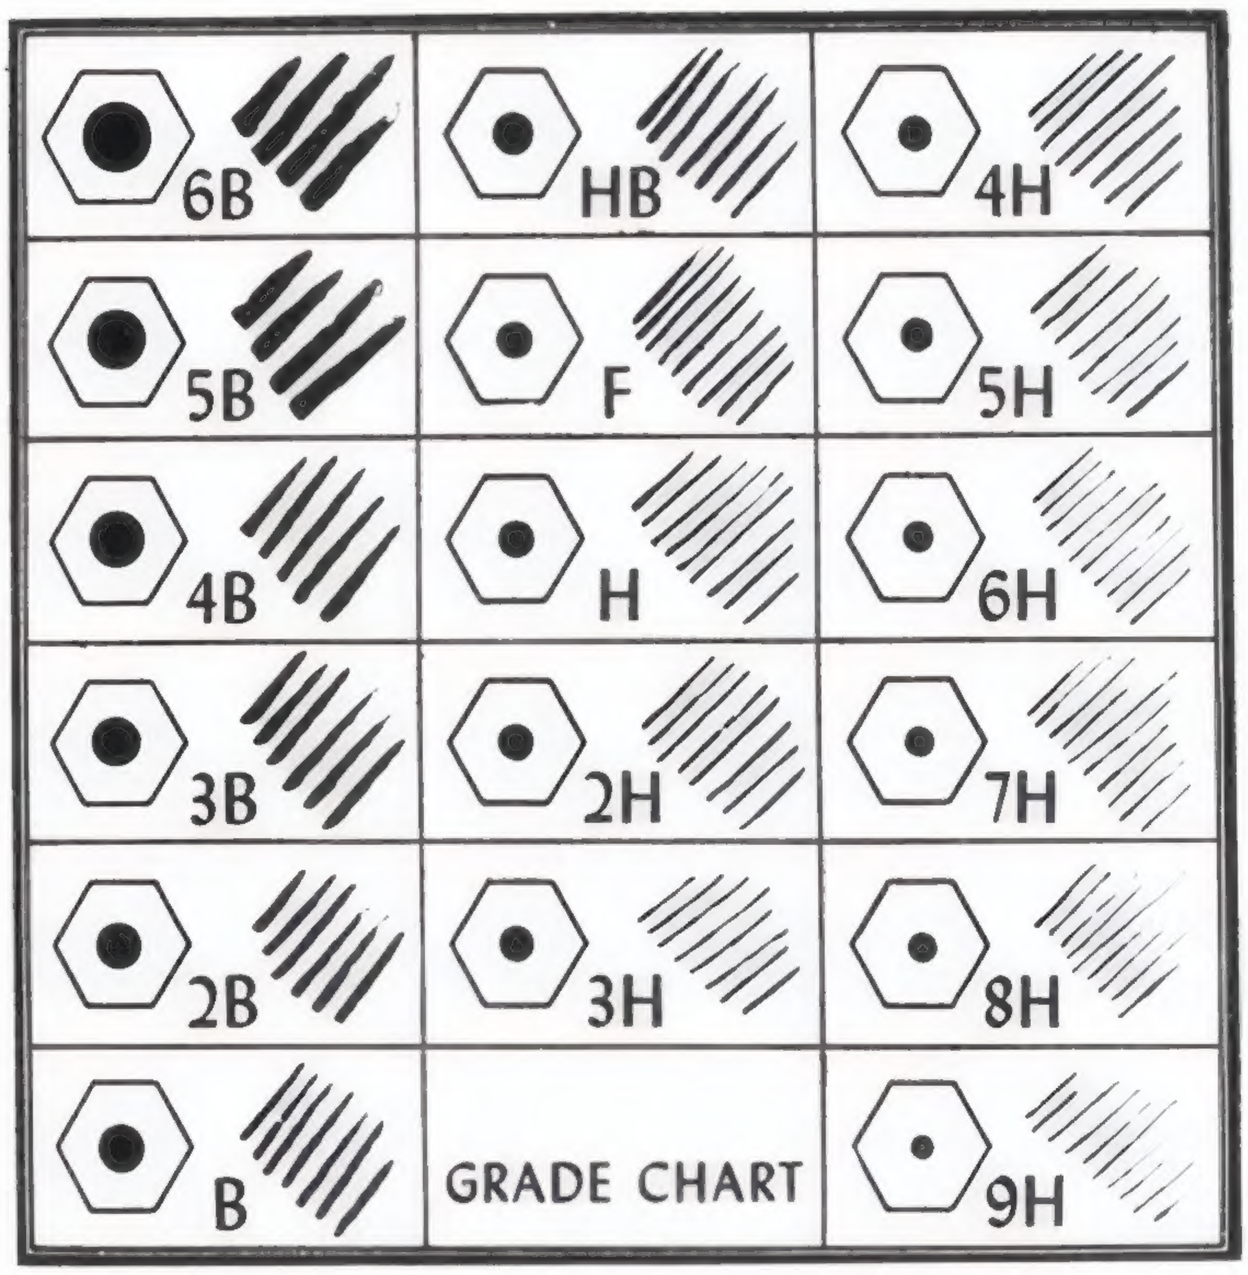
DRAWING AND SKETCHING PENCILS



DRAWING PENCILS

Drawing pencils are made in many degrees of hardness ranging, in most instances, from 6B, the softest, to 9H the hardest. HB is considered medium. Soft leads are much blacker than hard. To obtain the shades of grey desired in sketching an assortment is therefor necessary. Draftsmen use harder leads for fine lines and detail. The grade chart to the left shows the approximate blackness of each degree.
